The hike to Siebenhütten is one of the most enjoyable walks at the foot of the Blaubeerge. With only gentle inclines, the route follows the unspoilt Weißbach Valley alongside the crystal-clear Hofbauernweißbach stream. Historic buildings, beautiful waterside scenery and traditional places to stop for refreshments make this easy circular hike a wonderful experience for families, nature lovers and those simply looking to slow down and enjoy the landscape.

Roadbook

The hike begins at the Wildbad Kreuth car park. After just a few steps, you will reach the historic Altes Bad Kreuth, once renowned far beyond Bavaria as a royal spa. Set amidst the peaceful mountain landscape, the traditional building still conveys the distinctive charm of a bygone era.

From there, follow the well-maintained trail along the Hofbauernweißach. The almost level path leads through shady forests, following the clear mountain stream upstream. After a short while, you will reach the impressive Hofbauernweißach Gorge, where the stream winds its way through the rocky terrain. A small waterfall along the trail is a lovely spot to pause and enjoy the tranquillity of the surrounding nature.

A few minutes later, you will arrive at the idyllic Siebenhüttenalm. Surrounded by dense woodland, it is a popular destination for hikers and cyclists. The cosy sun terrace invites you to enjoy regional specialities and homemade cakes.

For the return journey, follow the opposite bank of the Hofbauernweißach downstream. The route takes you along quiet paths through the picturesque Weißach Valley and past the Herzogliche Fischzucht Wildbad Kreuth, which has been known for its high-quality local fish specialities for many years. From here, it is only a short walk back to the car park.
