The Schwarzentenn Alm is one of the most beautiful and popular alpine huts around Lake Tegernsee. This leisurely hike begins at the Klamm Nord hiking car park and leads through the idyllic Schwarzentenn Valley, following the Schwarzenbach stream to the traditional alpine hut. Peaceful woodland, gently flowing streams and the surrounding mountain landscape make this an ideal excursion for anyone looking to enjoy nature and authentic Bavarian alpine culture at a relaxed pace.

Roadbook

The hike begins at the Klamm Nord hiking car park in Kreuth. From here, the trail initially heads towards Schwarzentenn Alm. For the ascent, we recommend the varied forest path along the Schwarzenbach stream. The narrower trail winds through shady mountain woodland, following the stream across small bridges and footbridges. Beautiful views of the water and surrounding nature open up along the way. Gradually, the trail climbs gently and leads deeper into the Schwarzentenn Valley. Small streams, moss-covered woodland and peaceful clearings create a particularly idyllic atmosphere. After several kilometres, the landscape becomes more open, with the first alpine meadows heralding the approach to Schwarzentenn Alm.

Eventually, you will reach Schwarzentenn Alm at an altitude of around 1,028 metres. The traditionally situated alpine hut is an inviting place to stop for a well-deserved break and enjoy regional specialities.

For the return journey, we recommend the wide, well-maintained forest road. It descends gently through the woodland towards Kreuth. The route is considerably wider and more comfortable than the trail used for the ascent, making for a relaxed descent.

This creates a varied circular hike: enjoy the quieter, more natural forest trail on the way up and return comfortably to the starting point via the forest road.
